

TWO 13 FIGURES CANNOT DAMPEN AMBULANCE DRIVE

Voluntary Subscriptions In Gettysburg Alone Mounting At Surprising Date.

With voluntary contributions in Gettysburg alone mounting at an average rate of $100 a day, and with satisfactory reports being received from a number of the places in the county where public subscription lists are open, the committee in charge of the drive for $2,000 for the purchase of the chassis for an ambulance for Gettysburg and Adams county today expressed confidence that the campaign would come to a close next week.

The total amount of contributions received up to noon today, exclusive of those secured in the county, was $1,367.13. The fact that today's total contained two 13 figures did not dampen the hopes of the committee that the $2,000 mark would be reached next week.

Increase Wheel Base

After the underbody for the ambulance had been taken to the body builder in Hanover Thursday afternoon, and carefully gone over, it was decided to increase the wheelbase of the machine from 132 to 145 inches, to insure greater comfort for the patients, and to accommodate the size of the body.

Plans for the conveyance will be submitted to the committee within ten days, it is announced. The ambulance, which is to be built by a Hanover firm, will represent the last word in that form of automobile construction. The cost of the body will be taken care of by local Gettysburg interests, not connected with the Warner Hospital.

COUNTY SCOUTS TO PRESENT PLAY

Two Taverns Eagle Tribe Will Present "The Country Lone Scouts" on Saturday.

The Eagle tribe of Lone Scouts of Two Taverns will present a three-act comedy drama, "The Country Lone Scouts" by Walter Ben Hare, in Mt. Joy Community Hall Saturday evening.

The story concerns a group of boys working in the coal mines in a small Pennsylvania town. They are called bad boys, and their leader, Huckleberry, a part enacted by Alton Motter, has achieved the distinction of being the worst boy in the neighborhood. Judge Tolliver, acted by Ralph Wolfe, owner of the mines, decides to place his son, Norman, a part taken by Luther Hankey, in charge of the supply store at the mines. Huck is hired as a clerk. Norman falls in the clutches of a loan shark, one Mose Skinsky, played by Vernon Straley. Huck, with the aid of his negro friend, Pinky, played by Grant Bercan, thwarts the money lender in his attempt to rob the cash till of the store. Other characters include: Wun Lung Loo, the Chinese laundryman, Walter Crouse, and Flapjack, an Irish boy, Amos King. The play draws the moral that no boy is really a bad boy if placed in the right environment.

The members of the Eagle tribe of Lone Scouts, fourteen in number, all consist of boys between the ages of 10 and 20, who have shown their usefulness to the community in various ways by assisting at the annual community fair in directing traffic and parking cars and by taking part in projects for the benefit of the local church and band.

The meetings of the lone troopers are held the second and fourth Friday nights of each month. Any one interested in their work is invited to be present at these meetings.

"SINGING SANDS" ARE NEW MYSTERY

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Feb. 27.—The mystery of "singing sands" along the Atlantic seaboard is the latest to be put up before the scientists of the Smithsonian institution for an answer. Members of the coast guard, who vouch for the vocal quality of the sands, which they declare emit a low moaning sound when the tide runs over them, have brought specimens to the institution for examination. The scientists have not yet committed themselves on the matter in advance of a little research.

LEONARD MARSDEN GARDNER (Written for The Gettysburg Times by C. E. Pearson.)

Reverend Leonard Marsden Gardner died on Tuesday, February 24, at the home of his son, L. M. Gardner, Jr., in York Springs, from the infirmities incidental to old age, aged 94 years.

Deceased was born in Latimore township, Adams county, Pennsylvania, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner, and up to his eighteenth year pursued the life and habits of the average rural youth.

In 1848, when but eighteen years of age, while an apprentice on the Star and Banner, Gettysburg, on New Year's night he was converted in the Methodist church of that place through the calling of the Rev. Holland, then its pastor.

With his conversion came the call to the ministry and six months afterwards he became a public exhorter, at twenty years of age being licensed a local preacher and in 1854, when twenty-four years old, his name was placed upon the list of eligibles of the Baltimore Methodist Episcopal conference, the intervening years having been spent in preparation through study at Dickinson College and through local service.

When he became an exhorter, a strong friendship was welded between him and David McMillan, deceased, father of the late Oscar McMillan, of Gettysburg, through the things in common that interested them, and in company with his much older comrade, he was wont to visit nearby churches and lift his voice.

His first sermon was preached at the Hassler home, along the York pike about four miles from Gettysburg, where he had gone in company with his old friend, Mr. McMillan, to conduct services. His text was "Come all ye unto me that labor and I will give you rest."

On one of these pilgrimages to Littlestown, he delivered his second sermon in the presence of the local minister, the Rev. Jonathan Monroe, and also the presiding minister, the Rev. Tippet. His text was "Lo, I come, in the volume of the book it is written of me, to do thy will, Oh, God."

The presiding elder listened attentively and became possessed of the idea that the young man was plagiarizing and accordingly requested the pastor to ask him if he had not heard another preach a somewhat similar sermon.

Incensed at the injustice, Rev. Gardner declared his innocence and proffered the written sermon to the presiding elder for investigation but was told that his denial was suffice.

In the years that followed Rev. Gardner delivered the same sermon numerous times and the text or its treatment was never changed in any manner, the thoughts and words of the boy of twenty, word for word, and thought for thought, being preached in many large churches to congregations whose judgment and criticism were of a high order but as it was (Continued on Third Page)

WATER RATES MUST NOT EXCEED $4884

(By Associated Press.)

Harrisburg, Feb. 28.—The Biglerville Water Company has been ordered to file a new tariff to produce an annual gross operating revenue of not more than $4884 under an order of the public service commission announced today. Complaints against the rate was made by the borough of Biglerville and several residents.

The Biglerville Water Company boosted its rates some time ago, and at once residents of the town went up in arms against the increases, taking their complaints to Harrisburg, where they were laid before the public service commission. Efforts were made this afternoon to get a statement on the ruling of the commission from officials of the water company, but no one could be located who was authorized to issue such a statement.

He was sentenced late in March, 1924, and has not yet served a year of his minimum sentence. His appeal for a pardon was refused by District Attorney John P. Butt, Detective Charles Wilson and Sergeant A. F. Dahlstrom, who appeared before the board at its recent meeting.

Thirteen pardons were granted and twenty refused by the board. Among the pardons granted was one to Ralph T. Moyer, serving twelve to fifteen years for perjury and other charges in the wrecking of the North Penn Bank, Philadelphia, several years ago.

WEATHER DROP HALTS DAMAGE

Fruit Growers Rejoice As Cold Spell Reaches County; Warm Weather Threatened

With the mercury dropping suddenly from seventy degrees above zero, mild balmy weather akin to spring, Gettysburg and Adams county as a whole shivered in a temperature as low as 15 degrees today, but the hearts of fruit growers were made glad. For, according to those intimately acquainted with fruit growing, the cold spell warded off any possible danger to the apple crop which might have resulted had the warm weather continued longer and the trees begun to bud.

The slight flurry of snow Thursday was followed by a wind storm which continued through the night. The high winds brought overcoats out of premature storage in mothballs. The cold spell, according to the official weather man, is expected to continue over the week-end, but with the passing of the present cold wave there is renewed hope of the balmy weather of last week.

May Damage Peaches

While apples are considered absolutely safe from any damage as a result of the warm spell, followed by the cold snap, peaches in the county may be slightly damaged as a result of the unusually cold weather during the winter, fruit growers say. The damage in Adams county, if any, to peaches from the cold spell is not nearly as great as it is reported to be in the Cumberland Valley, these fruit growers say.

The Cumberland Valley peach crop is in danger of infantile paralysis. According to an official statement made at the department of agriculture, in Harrisburg, some of the buds have been hurt and there may be only half a crop.

The statement says: "W. A. McCubbin, pathologist, department of agriculture, has just returned from Franklin county, where he made some inquiry of the reported weather damage to fruit trees in that section. He found the injury very spotted. R. T. Criswell, prominent orchardist in the county, said that some peach orchards still have prospects for a full crop, others a medium crop and the remainder little, if any, fruit.

"The killing of the peach buds is reported as being very irregular, so that it will be some time before the actual damage can be estimated. There is a danger of over-estimating the damage, Mr. McCubbin states. According to all present indications, Franklin county will have about half a peach crop.

"The damage was not due to the temperature dropping to a very low point," Mr. McCubbin concludes. "It was due to the presence of a soft wet snow falling on the trees a day or two before the extreme cold weather. The trees were still moist when the temperature dropped and as a result the fruit buds were damaged."

PET DOG PROVES HERO OF BLAZE

(By Associated Press.)

Pittsburgh, Feb. 28.—A pet dog was the hero of a fire which early today destroyed the undertaking establishment of George F. Hackius in Carnegie. The dog aroused the six occupants of the house in time to escape from the burning building but perished in the flames.

Firemen removed the body of a Carnegie resident from the mortuary where it had been taken to be prepared for burial today. They failed, however, to rescue the mummified body of a woman that had been kept in the morgue by the undertaker for 15 years.

MEMORIAL TO COL. NICHOLSON HERE APPROVED

Colonel E. B. Cope Receives Confirmation From Captain J. O. Foering.

Colonel E. B. Cope, superintendent of the battlefield, received word today that his design of the proposed marker to be erected here in commemoration of the late Colonel John Page Nicholson, first and only chairman of the Gettysburg national park commission, has been approved by the war department.

Word to this effect was received by Colonel Cope from Captain John O. Foering, recorder of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, under whose supervision the tablet is to be erected.

The site for the memorial on Hancock avenue, near the headquarters of General Hancock, also has been approved by the war department, according to Colonel Cope's informant.

Approved By Legion

Colonel Cope's design for the tablet and the stone to which the bronze plate will be affixed was first approved by the Loyal Legion, after which it was submitted to the war department for final approval. The stone, which will measure 60 inches in height and 44 inches across, will be of granite, taken from the battlefield here, and employees of the local office are already at work shaping the native rock into the form of the finished stone.

The bronze tablet will measure 31 inches by 22 inches, at the top of which will be the seal of the Loyal Legion. Below the tablet will be a bronze seal of the United States. Directly under the Loyal Legion seal will be the name of Colonel Nicholson in full, with the dates of his birth and death, his war record and his connection with the national park commission.

After the inscription on the tablet has been approved by the war department, the Loyal Legion will allow Bureau Brothers, of Philadelphia, to proceed with the work of casting the plate.

Approve Inscription

It is expected that the tablet wording will be approved by the war department within a short time, and that the memorial will be ready for unveiling some time this summer. The program of dedicatory exercises will be arranged by the Loyal Legion, of which Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, retired, of Washington, is commander.

John Page Nicholson was appointed chairman of the battlefield commission, when that body was authorized by Congress in 1839, and he held that office until 1922, when he died. Following his death, the commission dissolved, and Colonel Cope was raised from the position of engineer, which he held under the commission, to superintendent of the national park.

Colonel Nicholson, who died in Philadelphia, lived in Gettysburg for a number of years.

HANOVER WOULD REOPEN AFFAIRS

Apparently Regretting Their Rowdy Treatment of Local High Tossers, Contest on Neutral Floor Is Suggested.

An echo of the incomplete basketball game between the teams of Gettysburg and Hanover High Schools, on the latter's floor, February 17, is heard in reports from the York county town carrying with them a proposition for a return game, on a neutral floor, with two officials, whose identities would not be disclosed to either team before the contest.

The Hanover plan for a return game between the two teams, according to a prominent Hanover business man, carries with it the posting of wagers by residents of the two towns, the winning team to get all, or the stake to go to the proposed Hanover hospital, or to the Warner hospital here, depending upon the winner of the contest.

To Raise Wager
Hanoverians, the business man stated, are ready to stake any amount from $150 to $500 on their team for a return game with the Maroon and White on a neutral floor. Each team would bear its own expenses for the game, though both schools would help defray the expenses of the floor hire and the cost of the officials, according to Hanover's proposition.

It is suggested by the Hanover sportsmen that the game be played either at York or at Harrisburg, with officials selected from the central board by committees appointed in the opposing towns. The drawing power of such a contest would be incalculable, it is believed, since rivalry between the two teams runs high and followers of the cage sport in both Hanover and Gettysburg are at a fever pitch. Some plan for the equitable division of the proceeds of the contest would have to be made by the joint committee, it is pointed out.

Coach Walter D. Reynolds, of the Gettysburg High School, immediately vetoed the plan of the Hanoverians for a return game on a neutral floor, as infeasible. He declared he would not reopen athletic relations with the York county town high school, which were severed by him after the Orange and Blue Squad Takes Revenge For Years of Defeats; Is Season's Upset.

A battle-scarred regiment of basketballers, who had tasted defeat three times this season after countering with eight victories, struck with a vicious sting Wednesday night, unfurled a furious attack of speed, passing, team-work and impenetrable defense and battered the Lehigh-Steelmakers to a 41 to 29 standstill.

It was another case of "revenge is sweet." The victory, the first against Lehigh since Gettysburg College opened basketball relations with the Steelmakers, was the season's cage surprise and sport dopesters throughout the East haven't recovered from the upset—except those who witnessed the pastime in South Bethlehem.

Shining Lights
Captain Peduzzi and Gerhardt were shining lights of the evening's performance. The veteran pilot and big blond center presented such a dazzling demonstration of speed, passing and basket-scoring that the Lehigh warriors were unable to strike their stride until way late in the game and then too late to overcome a wide margin struck up by the Leathers-coached aggregation. At one period of the game, Gettysburg piled up a 24 to 4 score against their opponents, the while the hundreds of enthusiastic followers of the Steelmakers begged and pleaded with their favorites to bridge the gap and conquer the little college five.

The new found victory also cleaned the slate of many old gridiron victories of Lehigh over Gettysburg and all during the battle the Orange and Blue tossers struck with that determination that brought home to Lehigh the evident conclusion that they were battling a foe that refused to be downed or stopped.

Century Battle
For Gettysburg it was "the battle of the century." Many long months have the local cagers waited for just this opportunity. Season after season they have battled the strong Lehigh cagers only to be tumbled year after year. The same held true in football with few exceptions.

Wednesday night saw the fulfillment of the dreams of a number of Gettysburgians and it took the little band of blue-trunked warriors to turn the trick—and they did it in Napoleonic style.

Not once during the forty minutes of playing was there any question in the minds of the packed house as to who was master of the situation. From the opening whistle, which sent the ten men into action, Gettysburg took the lead, piling up point after point, and blocking every Lehigh attempt to rally. The five-man defense of the Bullets was too much for the Steelmakers. They simply could not break the first line, and if they did, the secondary defense of the stalwart guards of the Bullets waited, ready, eager, anxious.

Up and down the floor the Bullets raced. The Kentucky Derby seemed like a walking contest, compared with the speed of the Bullets. Short, snappy passing, wiggled the ball through Lehigh's defense and it was Captain Peduzzi or Gerhardt who tossed the counters, two by two, an occasional one, but mostly two by two.

At half time, Gettysburg was leading 29 to 13.

incomplete game at Hanover two weeks ago.

Withdraws Team

Coach Reynolds withdrew his team from the Hanover Y. M. C. A. floor because he said he was receiving a "raw deal" from Referee Shetter, of York. According to the Gettysburg coach, Referee Shetter called 12 fouls on his team during the first half and only two on Hanover, although the Hanoverians "repeatedly charged, blocked, jumped into and on the Gettysburg players," according to the local mentor's version of the contest.

About the middle of the second period, Coach Reynolds called his team off the floor, after the fourth personal foul had been called on Moser. According to Coach Reynolds, Moser was not near the man supposed to have been fouled. The score was 31 to 17 in favor of Hanover when the game was stopped.

A near riot followed the action of the Gettysburg coach and serious trouble was only prevented by the arrival of Chief of Police Crabbs, according to reports.

"That girl will make a fool of you too, Lee Anderson, just as I did," she cried. "You'd be made a fool of anywhere, by any woman!"

But her words, passed Lee by like the wind.

"I could have killed you that morning, as I could kill you now, only—I love James Rathway. And he'll love me again when you take this new attraction away out of his sight, where he can't find her. I thought you'd go away—but here you are, back again with her, and all the work's got to be done over again."

"I was crouching near, and I overheard your dialogue, you and she, and the priest, and James Rathway. You gave her up—the woman you love—because she'd stood up before the altar with the man she hated and called herself his wife. I'd hold the woman I loved, were I a man, against God Himself, and all his cohorts!"

"Oh, if only I could find words to hurt you, Lee Anderson, to pierce that tough skin of yours! But I haven't time. Listen to me, now! You don't have to commit murder to get her. You fool, you blind fool, shall I tell you?"

She laughed with taunting menace. "Shall I tell you, Lee Anderson?" she repeated.

And suddenly came the sound of Joyce, screaming within the house. There came the noise of a struggle.

Even as Lee turned, Joyce was running along the passage toward the door. Instantly Estelle glided away into the shadows.

Joyce flung the door open; and then Rathway caught her from behind and swung her back toward him. His black beard hung over her face.

"Lee! Lee! Come to me!" Joyce ceased to struggle.

"Here!" answered Lee, and dashed

"Here!" answered Lee, and dashed his fists into Rathway's face, sending him staggering.

Rathway howled and felt for his pistol. Lee was upon him, plucking his arms to his sides, before he could draw it. But Rathway's men came hurrying along the passage. In an instant there was a furious melee. Lee tripped over a leg thrust out, fell heavily upon his back, and struggled in vain under the weight of his four adversaries.

Quickly he was reduced to helplessness; his limbs held firmly. Momentarily he ceased to struggle, nursing his strength for a more violent effort.

He looked up into the grinning faces, at Rathway, standing over him, leaning, arms outstretched, gasping for breath and consciousness.

Rathway pulled his pistol and covered Lee. "Pierre! Shorty! Kramer! You're witnesses that you saw this man spying outside this house."

They assented. Pierre grinned, Shorty swore, spat, and scowled, and Lee saw the half-headed scar of his pistol butt upon his cheek.

"You saw him assault me," Rathway continued. "Well, Anderson, I guess if I choose to show you like the dog you are, the law wouldn't have much to say about it. But I'll be reasonable. Get back to your quarters!" he snarled to his aides, and the three men in surprise released Lee and went down the passage.

Lee leaped to his feet, confronting Rathway resolutely, but puzzled. Rathway held him covered.

"You must want my wife mighty bad to come back like a fox at night in the hope of picking her up under my nose, Anderson," said Rathway. "Well, I'm a business man, and I guess anyone can get most anything he wants if he wants it bad enough to be willing to pay the price for it."

AGED RETIRED

first compiled, it always stood the test.

From that time on the Rev. Tippet became a propelling power behind him and at every opportunity spoke a good word in his favor.

On Christmas Day, 1856, he was united in marriage with Anna Maria Rhodes, of near Upton, Franklin county, Pennsylvania, who proved a good helpmate to him in the years that followed and in his "Sunset Memories" her name appears quite frequently, showing how in his work and thought she formed an essential part. The names of his two sons, George, of Newport, Tennessee, and Leonard M., Jr., are also used with frequency, especially the latter in the building of the Robinson Crusoe yacht and its launching upon the waters of the Indian River, Florida, upon whose banks this son then had his home. This incident was always a matter of much interest and pride to him. His itinerary carried him to many places as is the lot of itinerant clergymen, and during the years of 1854-55 and '56, after his admission to conference, he served as an assistant to pastors in charge of circuits at Mercersburg, Pennsylvania, and Frederick, Maryland.

While thus engaged he was ordained and after his marriage served as pastor in charge as follows: 1857-58, McConnellsburg, Pennsylvania; 1859-60, Hancock, Maryland; 1861-62, Lock Haven, Pennsylvania; 1863-64, Corrensburg and Clearfield, Pennsylvania; 1865-66-67, Exter Street church, Baltimore, Maryland; 1868-69, Strawberry Street Church, Baltimore, Maryland; 1870-71-72, Liberty Street Church, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; 1873, Calvert Circuit, Baltimore; 1874, Winchester, Virginia; 1875, Frostburg, Maryland; 1876-77, Easter Avenue Church, Baltimore, Maryland; 1878-79-80, Ryland Street Church, Washington, D. C.; 1881-82-83, Mount Zion Street Church, Washington, D. C.; 1884-85-86, Franklin Street Church, Baltimore, Maryland; 1887-88-89, Woodbury Avenue Church, Baltimore, Maryland.

After he had closed his pastorate at Woodbury Street Church, for the purpose of giving his wife, whose health was failing, an opportunity to enjoy a winter in Florida, he asked for a supernumery. After this period, having become fixed in his own home on Meadow Hill Farm, in York Springs, he never applied for admission into the effective service again and consequently remained as a permanent resident there up to the time of his recent death.

A number of years ago his wife was summoned by death and passed away, leaving him to travel forward through life without the companionship that had meant so much to him for so many years.

In his pastorate his experiences like all those following his calling, were varied and eventful, the bitter mingling with the sweet, but the pleasure of his work and association of the many friends with whom he mingled in his travels greatly predominated.

The following titles of some of the chapters of his "Sunset Memories" will give the reader an idea of his experiences and the history of his life as he has written it: "My Schoolmasters," "Itinerary," "Recollections of the Political Campaigns of 1840-44," "Reminiscences of the Civil War," "The Backtails," "Florida," "The Robinson Crusoe," "Celebrated Men Whom I Have Seen," "Books and Reading," "Literary Efforts," "Personal Observations of Slavery," "Ministerial Friends and Associates," and many other interesting subjects, the volume consisting of fifty-six chapters in all.

For some years past the Rev. Gardner lived in darkness, it being his lot to lose the sight of his eyes, but he bore his affliction with fortitude and was uncompaining, living in the happy memories of the past and the recollections of his well spent life.

He was buried on Friday, February 27, by the side of his departed wife in Sunnyside Cemetery, York Springs.

Can success in life be undermined by constipation? Indeed it can. The poisons of this disease tire you out, wear you down, make you listless and make you lose interest in things in general. Ambition is most often prompted by a thoroughly healthy body. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings permanent relief from constipation.

"Shoulders that droop and feet that drag"

There is a sure relief from this disease. It is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN goes completely through the system without changing its fiber. Let Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regain your health and keep you feeling fit. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price. Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—for only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. All grocers sell it. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it.

IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS SEEMS SOUND

The gratifying feature of the improvement in business is that expansion doesn't seem to have any evidence of a boom as that any sign of inflation is in sight. There does not seem to be any wild rush to pile up inventories and the price advances of leading commodities have been moderate. Money remains easy reflecting no over extension of credit. The conservative and sound way in which business has been going forward seems to insure a long period of prosperity and continued improvement.—Printers Ink.

The time for reasoning is before we have approached near enough to the forbidden fruit to look at it and admire.

JUST FOLKS
By Edgar A. GuestTHE OLD MORTGAGE
(With Apologies)

How dear to my heart is that little old mortgage,
That little old mortgage my ancestors knew;
My grandfather nursed it and twice a year cursed it,
For every six months was the interest due;
My father assumed it, and tenderly groomed it,
"Some day we shall lift it together," said he;
But the dear little plaster stuck faster and faster
And all in good time it descended to me.

Through all life's vicissitudes that little mortgage
Over our heads has with patience remained.

Though the children have broken full many a token
Of cut glass and silver our wedding day gained;
Though thieves without warning broke in one dark morning
And took all the jewels and plate they could find,
They never discovered that mortgage which hovered
Above us, or scornful, they left it behind.
Through fire's grim disaster, that dear little plaster—
Unscorched and untarnished, escaped with its life.
Earthquakes couldn't shift it, it dared us to lift it!

of my wife.
Each July and December we've had to remember
The banker who made it when first it was new,
We've clung to old raiment to dig up a payment,
A payment for six per cent interest due.

How dear to my heart is that little old mortgage
Which over our heads through the long years has hung!
Through my memory passes those legal "whereases"
And all the conditions with which it was strung.
That time-honored mortgage, that ribbon-tied mortgage,
That mortgage which over our lives cast its shade;
I know I shall miss it, as farewell I kiss it,
But old friends must part, and that mortgage I've paid.

Men's thoughts are much according to their inclinations.

DOING HIS DUTY

"For two years I suffered agonizing pains in my stomach, belching up sour and bitter fluids and gas. Tongue always coated. Doctors were unable to help me. The first dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy made me feel 100 per cent better, and I am now feeling better than at any time in my life. I deem it my duty to advise other sufferers." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the cartarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at People's Drug Store and druggists everywhere.—adv.

Rheumatism

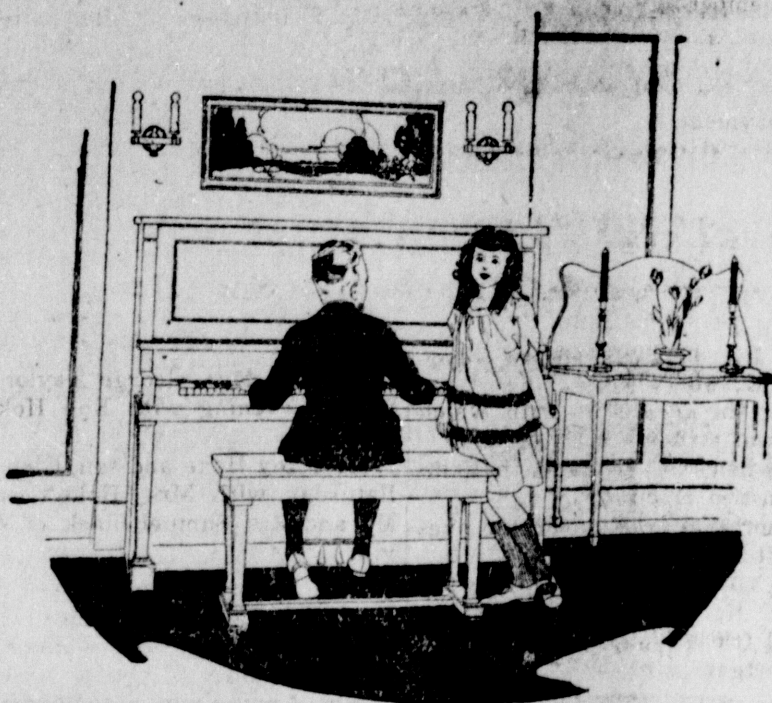

"Good-bye old crutch!"

THERE IS positively no longer any excuse for suffering the agonies of rheumatism! Especially in the autumn of your life, when the vital organs weaken, impurities multiply and linger in the muscles and joints, as never before. It is now, just now, when you cannot afford to guess. No day returns!

Here is a joyous fact which can mean to you a fond farewell forever to all the miseries, the tortures, the body-twisting pains that you have suffered from the demon of rheumatism. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red-cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweet heart glow; your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

BEST BY TEST

Factory Test Proves it—

Every housewife knows that the strength of spices, extracts, etc., varies. This is true of materials used in the manufacture of baking powder—but it is never true of Calumet.

Every ingredient that enters into the manufacture of Calumet must measure up to the highest standard of perfection—it must be found "Best by Test."

And factory tests are not considered sufficient—Calumet is tested from time to time right in the dealer's store. Here representatives of the company make a leavening strength test. If by chance a can is found to be even slightly deteriorated it is removed from the store and a fresh can substituted.

Home Test Proves it—

Calumet has no "near" competition. There is no baking powder "just as good"—or nearly as good. To substitute any other leavener for Calumet is to bring about disappointment on bake day.

Millions of housewives, leading hotels, big railroads, restaurants, domestic science experts and good bakers use Calumet—because they know by actual experience that it has no equal.

For 35 years Calumet has been raising the bakings of the nation to their highest nutritional value—making happy, healthy children in a multitude of homes. Made in the world's largest and most sanitary baking powder factories.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS!

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

F. TRUBEE DAVISON

This is the latest photograph of F. Trubee Davison, who represents Nassau County, of Long Island, in the New York Legislature. Mr. Davison's father, the late Henry P. Davison, of the Morgan banking firm and head of the American Red Cross during the World War, left him the larger part of his millions so he could engage in politics as a life career.

Reason is the director of man's will, discovering in action what is good. Worth begets in base minds envy; in great souls emulation.

A PARTNER OF SUNLIGHT

Cod-liver oil has aptly been called the partner of sunlight. Both out of Nature's storehouse of energy are of supreme importance to a child with rickets.

Scott's Emulsion

and sunlight have been used for decades to give strength to weak bones. A little of Scott's Emulsion with each feeding does wonders for a malnourished child or adult.

Keep your boy or girl out in the sunlight and give them Scott's Emulsion everyday—regularly!
